

Data Wrangling

A large, light-colored dog is lying down on a paved surface, looking towards a small puppy standing next to it. The puppy is also looking at the adult dog. The background is a blurred green area, possibly grass or foliage. The text "Data Wrangling" is overlaid in a large, white, cursive font across the top half of the image.

Charlie Cooper

One would think that dog names should be cute and catchy. Turns out not. Humans do consider them their true best friends as 8 out of the top 10 most popular names are classic human names .

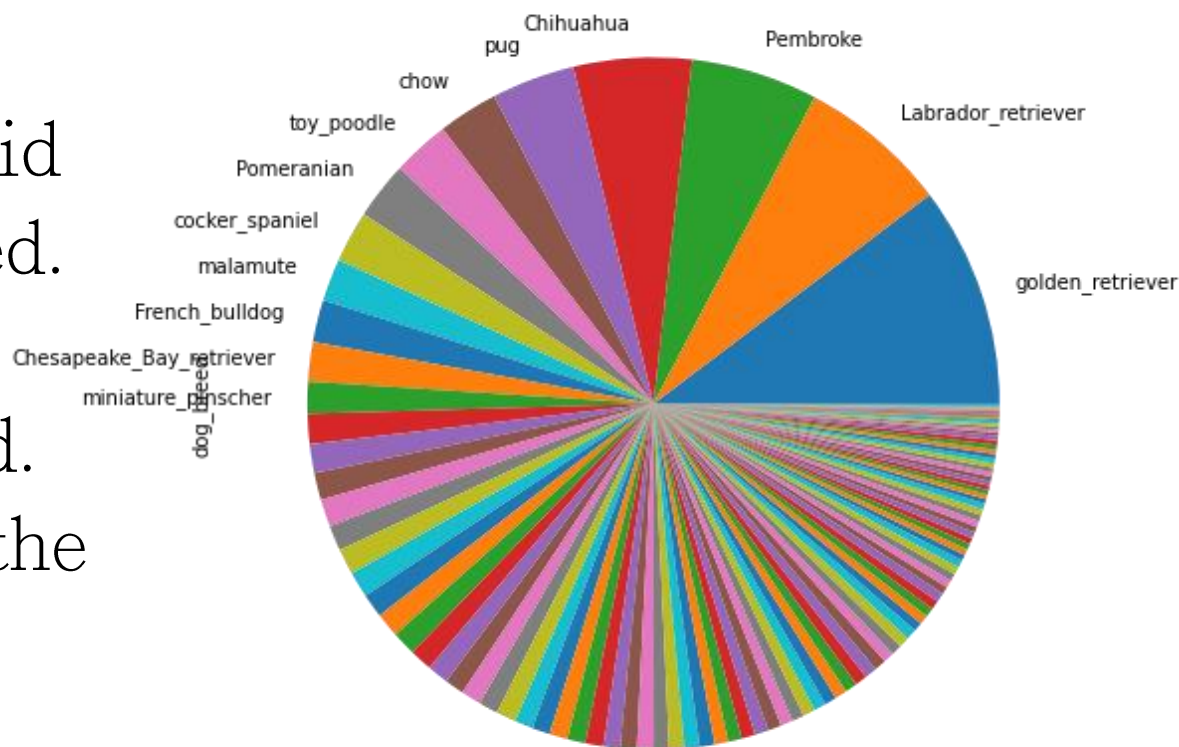

The best of best

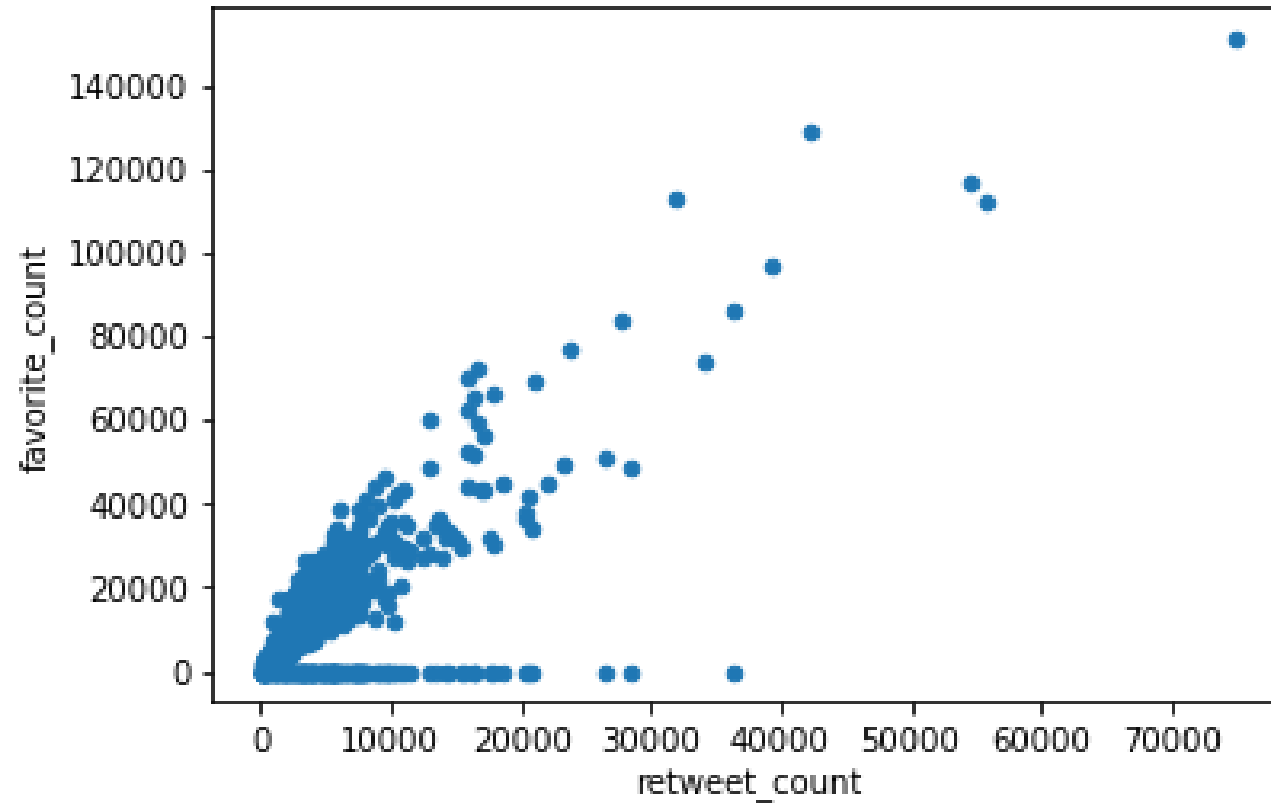

It's official! Labrador retrievers take the crown for the most loved dog breed. They have been the most favored although they only make up 7% of the posts. Maybe there is a mental picture of “them” being the man's best friend.

Cover dog

This poor doggo, although mentioned a lot on the page, did not rank well in the top favored. The golden retriever might be considered the mediocre breed. Might be most owned but not the most exciting.

Word of heart

It seems that retweets don't necessarily mean that the post will be favored but if it's favored a lot it gets viral! Maybe pages should learn from that to increase engagement on their pages.
